

Healthcare private network

One of the most important applications of IP based digital microwave systems is represented by the connection between buildings in hospital complexes and from the main electronic archive to remote laboratories and specialist health checking points.

Skylinks also offers mobile solutions for connection of ambulances or temporary first aid installations to the institutional healthcare network, for connection of digital instruments or data/voice over IP communications.

